Prologue

Our time at high school has come to an end. That we may not, in future time, forget the joys and friendships of these last four years, we have sought to capture them in everlasting form through the medium of this book.

CARTY LYNCH.

We, the class of 1944, take this opportunity to express our deep appreciation to Mr. Downey for his sympathetic understanding and his sincere friendship.

Light That Endureth

From hardy trees that lined the river banks
And sucked prodigious valour from the ground
Were hewn by willing hands the rough wood planks,
Great leafy boughs, that gave protection sound
To maiden soil, for Freedom's sons renowned
Would furnish now a school. Across the field
In sunlit clover decked, came, leaping mound
And wall, the village boys — and soon they kneeled
At Wisdom's feet, in wonder at the truths unsealed.

The shot heard round the world their schooldays closed.
In homespun ranks to fife and rolling drum,
Not drawn by gold nor forceful law imposed
But moved with love for liberty hard-won,
In gory, bitter strife, 'neath beating sun,
Through blinding snow and driving, stinging rain,
Life's warm red blood they lost to reeking gun.
Their birthright saved, they cherished clean of stain
From son to upright son, America's free name.

Their proud and grasping foes young soldiers, snatched
From carefree childhood, taught the honour due
A nation waxing strong. Once only, hatched
Within, deep crevasse cracked the land in two,
But when the seething ocean calmer grew
Free man from slave arose. Six times in all
The youth marched off when war's brash trumpet blew—
Each blast proclaimed to be great Mars' last call.

Bright hope for peace soared high when came the Hun's first fall.
Through years of calm and strife the school went on,
To foster virtue, courage, hate for sin.
Her children learned all selfishness to scorn
And revelled in sweet peace — until, 'midst din
Of bombs, with preying swoop and vulture's grin,
Brute tribes enraged us, hordes of maddened bees.
We love what we defend, armed strong within,
By trust in God, Who sees beyond the seas
And guiding blesses all who train such men as these.

MARIE RUSSELL.

Class Song

Like sheep that graze on pastures green
'Neath constant shepherds' care,
Like unkempt wool the shearers glean,
For future use prepare;
With eager minds for knowledge true
To face the storm or strife,
Our spirits nourished, we pursue
The truth and right in life.

With brave endurance, purpose strong
Sustaining faith and hope
To search life's pathway grim and long
With truth and widened scope,
We turn away down steps well trod
With mingled joy and sorrow
To shape our destinies through God
In that new world — tomorrow.

BARBARA RUNDLET.

In early September of 1940, several months after the catastrophic fall of France and in the midst of the devastating bombings of London, an event of seemingly paramount importance took place in the lives of us, the members of the class of 1944. We became high-school students. Although mere Freshmen, dwarfed physically by the upper-classmen, who saw to it that we did not forget our lowly position, we considered ourselves active, mature members of a tremendous and dignified institution.

At this time, some of us received a taste of the classical subject, Latin, concerning which our older brothers and sisters had so often spoken. We also studied Ancient History, vicariously witnessing struggles and battles which would in ordinary times fill us with awe. Yet, in the light of the raging life and death conflict across the seas, and the unprecedented third-term election of an American president, the trials and tribulations of the ancient folk of the Near East, Greece, and Rome could be of only minor significance.

All was not work, however. Many members of this new class, the first Freshmen group to enjoy the innumerable benefits of the newly-erected wing, took part in the various school activities. One of our conspicuous habits was vocal renditions of "Only Forever," "Perfidio" and "Amapola" in subdued tones which could be heard at almost any time.

In the last week of our Freshman year came the momentous news of the German invasion of Soviet Russia; when we returned the following September, the battle for Russia was raging unabated. At this time, our greatly admired Mr. Cleveland, headmaster for more than a quarter of a century, retired, and Mr. Downey, esteemed by the teachers and pupils alike, very ably took his place.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

At the time we were delving into involved geometric figures, Caesar's Campaigns, and arduous business arithmetic problems, the bombing which was heard around the world occurred. The Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor. The next day over our loud speaker system the declaration of war from Washington was heard. America with her energies was thrown into the titanic struggle which was to decide whether or not humanity was to keep its dignity. As a result of our entrance into the war, Junior Red Cross groups were organized in the schools and War Bond sales were stimulated. The patriotic phrase "Remember Pearl Harbor" was used, and a song of that name was popular for a short time.

Although the accent had previously been taken off finals and mid-years, they were indefinitely discontinued as Cambridge High and Latin was put on a war basis.

When the spring and summer of '42 had passed into history, we entered upon our junior year with the ranks of our class somewhat depleted by the lure of employment. For those of us who remained, the school and the opportunities it offered were to a greater extent than ever at our disposal. Many members of the class took an active part in school clubs, sports, and other school activities. Together with our growth in stature and mentality came our growth in responsibility. Our subjects such as English, Latin, Stenography, Typing, modern languages were advanced, and therefore quite difficult, and our duty to ourselves to keep pace with them was a great strain upon our determination and ability.

At this time, the school committee decided to combine the athletic teams of Cambridge Latin and Rindge, but the ruling was withdrawn after the football season, and other sports had individual teams.

In the late fall of '42, our first class elections were held. The campaigns for the four offices were long and hard fought, but honest and sportsmanlike. The winners were Francis Mullaney, President; Richard Alyward, Vice-President; Hilda Carey, Secretary; and Thomas Tobin, Treasurer.

In this period, Americans were fighting and dying in the Pacific, and American troops staged an invasion of northern Africa. America had expanded, had grown powerful; she was no longer a lumbering, helpless giant in a world at war, but instead an active and potent member of the newly-christened United Nations. Symbolic of the times was the popular tune, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." Equally popular, although not at all symbolic, was the sweetly sentimental and nostalgic "As Time Goes By."

The general war-consciousness also exerted a great influence upon the customary school activities. The G. A. A. Formal, the K. B. formal, the Junior Prom, the Senior Drama, all of them annual C. H. L. S. events, were suspended in our junior year.

The summer of '43 passed but not without a good deal of hard labor on the part of the members of the class who naturally were anxious to take advantage of the many greatly remunerative jobs available because of the wartime conditions. In the fall of '43 we entered our senior year a great deal wealthier. We had finally reached our goal of being upper-classmen, a position which made us all a bit proud. However, the number of students had diminished even more, as a result once again of the lure of full-time employment. There were also several courageous boys who left school to join the armed forces.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

In our United States history classes we studied the development of our country, as American men were making history on the battlefields of Italy. We also spent many a long evening completing our lengthy English reading assignments. Occasionally a representative of one of our local colleges would deliver a lecture relative to the entrance requirements and curriculum of his school. Also, the education-seeking and war-minded young men of the senior class took the A-12 or V-12 examinations.

Our senior year from the social standpoint certainly was a great deal more pleasant than we had a right to expect. Many of the outstanding C. H. L. S. annual events, such as the K. B. Formal, the G. A. A. Formal, and the Junior Prom, which were not held our Junior year, were reinstated as some of the wartime stringencies were alleviated.

In the winter of '44, Cambridge Latin produced a championship team. The track team was overwhelmingly victorious in the Class B state meet at the Boston Garden. It was the first time in history that our track team had won the state-wide championship.

For some reason, American musical taste at this time seemed to veer from war songs to such tunes as "Besame Mucho," "Mairzy Doats," and "Pistol-Packin' Mama." These tunes were outspoken favorites at C. H. L. S.; piano renditions of them were very often heard before and after school in the Latin hall.

With the college students preparing for the college entrance examinations, and with the year book pictures being taken, it was apparent that our four pleasant and instructive years at Cambridge High and Latin were coming to an end. In the midst of a war of such magnitude and importance never before experienced in the history of the world we, the members of the Class of 1944, in a few short weeks, come to a parting of the ways; some of us going directly into the armed forces, others to college, and others to work. However, pride in our creditable achievements in these four years is common to all of us.

PAUL HASKELL.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

Class Prophecy

Good morning, stranger! It sure is a lovely morning! Let's take a walk around town and I'll show you the sights.

Why, there's our milkman, Paul Hanlon. He's been on this route for seventeen years. He seems to be talking with "Red" McKenna, our mailman. He's another old faithful in these parts. They are really a couple of swell fellows. And who's that big fellow with that fishing rod? Why, it's Jim McMellon going down to fish at the river. And that genial-looking chap just getting into his car is Joe Murphy, at present headmaster of the Boys' High.

Shall we turn down this street? Oh! there's Vahrim Pahigian, our local drugstore proprietor buying a paper from the paper-boy, Ed Lef-fitty's son. Ed, himself, is an instructor of aeronautics at the local college. I'll get my paper now. This is the best paper in town. Marcus McCorison, the editor, is doing a good job. I see where Art Travers, our senator, just made another of his powerful speeches in Congress. By the way Bill Donahue, Henry Petrow, and Ross Harris have been in the news quite a bit lately, for doing fine work as engineers down in Cuba. Well, can you beat that! It says here that Caire Gallop has just arrived in Hongkong, serving as America's good-will ambassador to China. And by golly! Those labor leaders Joe Libitz and Tom Maloney of Local 27 have started another strike on the other side of town at Guiney Brothers shoe factory.

Let's turn the page. Good show at the playhouse tonight according to this: Paul McCree and Bill Portanova are putting on their new show, "Chlorine and New Chintz," starring Jim Nixon, Kitty Cooper, and Gloria Smith. Ought to be good. Oh, did you know Dot Arthur and Doris Murphy are the stars of the radio show "Two over a cookstove?" I was at the playhouse last week and I bumped into Al Balsam who is just back from a lecture tour of the states and Canada. With him were les professeurs Jean Le Corbeiller and Walter Cremens, who had come to see the stage version of the current bestseller, "A Bush Grows in Brookline," by Peggy Reynolds. Now there's a girl that has made good. And Louise May Gaudet's new book "The New Chemistry Outlook for Beginners" is sold out completely!

Let's see what else the paper has to say. Here's Poppy Gomatos's society column. She says that the movie queens Mary Barrett, Myra Ayres, Christine Clements, and Claire Thibodeau, are making a personal appearance in Boston. On the right there's Marie Russell's nationally known column, "The World Today." Here's Sheila O'Connell's advertisement, teaching pupils of a modeling school how to cultivate dimples. Dot Grenier has received her Ph. D. in French. Sunday night Elaine Alexander is giving a concert at Symphony Hall, as we can see by billiards everyplace. The amateur Playhouse here in town is presenting Evelyn Fitzpatrick in "All that glitters is not Peroxide" by Gere Nolan. Marcine Karon is enlarging her dancing studio at the intersection there. Katherine Richardson and Mildred Ridgley have just won the Pulitzer Prize for their "Poetry Analysis."

Well, let's put the paper away and walk on. We're approaching the business district. We'll have to wait for the lights to change. Say, there are Marjorie Miller, Eileen Dinan, Theresa Emery, and Helen Iozze off to work. Well, we can cross now. Why that fellow in that limousine almost knocked us down! Why, it's Ray Hill. He just waved to us. Quite a prosperous man.

Say! It's almost noon! I'm hungry! Let's stop into Nick's Cafe. This place is run by Nick Kapelos. Serves good food too. Don't look now but over on the stool is Doc Bill Harris getting in a snack between calls. He's made quite a success in this town. That's Charlie Dustin he's chatting with. Poor fellow usually reeks of hydrogen sulfide from his laboratory at the college. He's just been promoted to a full professor in the chemistry department.

All through? O. K. Let's leave. That fellow we passed on the way out was lawyer Ed Doran. He just won a big criminal case. Quite a talker!

Let's walk in this direction. Oh! Look in there. There are school committeewomen Helen Tierney, Claire Moran, and Barbara Cleary talking things over in Barb Rundlet's elite tea shop. Sarah O'Connor, Pris Coleman, Neilsine Olsen, and Eileen O'Rourke are waitresses in there.

Right next door here is Don Kurth's barber shop. He's got a couple of swell barbers working for him too. They're Haskell Paster and Mike Najarian.

Just ahead is the local moviehouse. Everett Cameron is the manager. The marquis says that the comedy team of "Chub" Kelly and Bill Farrell are doing a vaudeville act. Something new around here. The picture they are showing looks pretty good, too. Bill Shannon and Beverly Taylor are playing the leads.

Say! I want to show you a book in the window of this bookshop. One of our fellow townsmen was the author of that textbook right there, "Seconde Cours de Francais," by Lawrence Mackey, A. B., Ph. D., LL. D. Known that fellow since high-school days, and he hasn't changed a bit. By the way, the poster in the corner of this window says that Walter Pattioli and his Rhythm-Rollickers, including Lawrence Hinkson, Sid Fishman, and Spiro Nicolas, will be here next week, with "Scotty" Cochrane as vocalist, and the dancing team of George Moynihan and Mary Prasinos. I don't want to miss that.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

Oh! look at those chaming ladies weighed down with bundles. Why! one of them looks like Eleanor Donaghue, and I believe the other two are Theresa Murray and Eileen Fitzgerald! That woman meeting them with her car is Barbara Cooper. She's a teacher at the high-school.

Shall we turn in at this department store? Oh, there's Catherine Furey talking to Mary Fougere and Josephine Gruskowski behind that glove counter. There are some fellows in this store whom you might know. They are Ed Mello and Art Campbell. They're right over there. Why! there's Coach Tom "Muscles" Sheehan over at the athletic counter. At present he's football coach over here at the college, and he has coached some championship teams during the past ten years. They have here a department of dresses designed by Martha Hoban and made by Doris Wheeler. I've heard that they travel the East selling self-sealing upper plates for old women. Let's take the elevator to the fourth floor — here we are. There's the shaving soap counter. I'll buy this brand here, "Mirianian's Anti-Burn." Hope it's as good as they say it is. I'll just leave the money here. I haven't got time to wait for the clerk. And there's Mark Lewis over at the book counter. He's a professor of electrical engineering over at the college. He just wrote a book and I suppose he's seeing how the sales are coming.

We'd better go down now. I could use a little fresh air. Hey! want to get a laugh. Take a look at those innocent-looking fellows over there. In reality they're the store detectives, Lester Rogers and Hugh O'Rouke. The pair of them make an average of three arrests a day. Those fellows talking just behind them are gym instructors at the high-school, Paul Holland on the left and Roy Traynor on the right.

What's all that commotion outside? Looks like a fire! Let's go along! I think it is up the street there. It's "La Belle Fleur" perfume shop! And there are the proprietors, Bessie Amidon and Eva Bannier, rushing out with their most precious stock! Poor things! At least the fire chief, John Griffin is doing his best to save the shop for the ladies, and so is fireman Charlie Sullivan. Unless I'm mistaken, those fellows pulling up in the ambulance are Paul Erickson and Johnny Dwyer. Those four girls examining the innards of the fire truck are Peg Murphy, Kay Tilson, Prudy Santoro, and Nancy Salvato. They must be out on their lunch hour. Quite a crowd gathering. Those two fellows trying to make themselves useful with the hose are Gil Cardozo and Leo Hollisian. They're waiters over at the "Green Parrot." The flames are getting pretty high. It seems to be spreading to that office building! Those women screaming up there, with earphones on their ears are Dolores Belanger, Kay Brogan, and Mary Ryan. I don't know why they are throwing glasses of water on the flames. That doesn't help much.

Well, you might know! There's "Soapbox" Nachman Goldwasser setting up his stand. Never known him yet not to take advantage of a crowd. What's his subject? Oh, yes! "The Expansion of our Federation as a Retaliaton to the Condemnation of Our Civilization." Quite typical of old "Soapbox."

I guess the fire is pretty much under control now. Seems to have flooded Fran Donovan's drug store pretty much, however. Just look at all those kids rushing for the candy bars floating out the door! I recognize one as being Stu Shane's little boy. Stu, himself, has made a great success in this town. He manufactures neckties, you know. I have one on right now.

We may as well walk on. We're coming up to Barbara McKinnon's beauty shop. There are Dotty Hawkes, Ruth Looney, Marilyn Landau, and Mildred Hurt getting their hair done. That window up ahead full of fluff, birds and feathers is Mary Linskey's hat shoppe. A helicopter just landed across the street and the pilot — why he's Hank Daley! Admiral Eugene Zubrinsky's official car just pulled out of Len Carchio's parking lot. Joe Nestar is the owner of the "U Drive It, U Crash, U pay" Car Lending Company in that building. Fran Mullaney is the photographer for the "Chic" magazine "Slink" edited by Terry Dubuque. Prudy Santoro's drawings are on display in that Art Shoppe managed by Berji Ohan.

Across the street is the new Peck General Hospital erected by Mayor Glen Peck. Fine building Councilor Bob Lowry and Paul Mahoney were influential in the legislation for its construction. There are Doctors Sherman Kramer and George Hiscock going into the building with nurses Terry Dubuque, Estelle Morris, Florence Owens, and Doris Leavitt.

Do you want to get tickets for tomorrow's exhibition baseball team? With stars "Lefty" John Caulfield, "slugging" Stan Brinkerhoff, and "Butterfly Ball" Tom Burke is playing. However, the Stanley Cup hockey play-offs are tomorrow night and I wouldn't want to miss that. Jim Fitzgerald and Paul Feloney are playing for the local outfit. I'd better buy the tickets tonight.

Let's stroll through the park here. If we walk down this path we'll come to the pond. There are Leighton Shields and James Cleary talking over the international situation as usual. That unshaven fellow lying on the grass over there with his hands behind his head, and with that mystical look in his eyes gazing into the heavens is none other than Pat Elliott, local poet-philosopher, seeking inspiration for his next work, no doubt. There are Jean Faulkner, Shirley Finstein, Barbara McDonnell, and Doris Nelson sitting on that bench feeding the pigeons. They're social workers, you know. They're probably taking a well-deserved respite from their arduous tasks at the community house.

Dick Learnard, the famed film star who uses Rick Casablanca for a screen name, was born in that house with a plaque on the door.

Let's stroll over by the field. On the tennis court volleying back and forth are Mary Alice Bigler and Virginia Scott. Over on the field there, Steve Harrington and Ed Anechiarico are instructing the youngsters in baseball. And there's Al Carlson teaching the young boys and girls how to mold clay. I think I also see Eileen Toohey teaching gymnastics to the girls. Theresa Regan is a teacher of Etiquette at the High School.

There are "Barb" Murphy and "Barb" McSorley talking with Lt. Commander Ronald D. Creedon. He is just back from an inspection of our insular possessions.

Right over there are artists Joe Quinn, Vera Chvany, Alberta Silverman, and Ruth Coleman, putting away their painting utensils after their usual afternoon of sketching and painting the exquisite scenery around here.

Let's stop here. I want to buy some of Paul Sprogis's ointment for spavined horses.

Well, I guess we'd better turn back. The sun will be down in a few minutes and I have to be getting back home. I think I have shown you the highlights of the city. It's quite an interesting and thriving place, full of fine, capable people. You say you're going to the hotel? O. K. I take this bus coming now. See you later.

WAR ACTIVITIES

Since September 1942 a new course in Foods and Nutrition has been added to Home Economics Course as part of the War effort. Over a hundred girls have benefited from this work.

February of this year a Home Nursing Course taught by our school nurse, Miss Barry, has been opened to girls. So great was the demand for this that we hope to have many more classes next year.

The school has done well this year in its War Bond purchases. Over ninety per cent of the pupils have bought, and the total by April 1, amounts to $58,226.80. This means that we have good hope of paying for a Mustang plane, which has been our goal. The seniors share was $11,028.25.

THE JUNIOR RED CROSS

The High School Unit of the Junior Red Cross, under the sponsorship of Miss Alice A. Ward, has attained a one hundred percent enrollment of the student body. The diligent members have contributed much to the war effort by making numberless sweaters, socks, afghans, and other knitted articles. Many workers have fashioned bedjackets, felt slippers, bed-side utility bags, and many other comforts for all convalescent war heroes. Aside from the above-mentioned work, several members have voluntarily given considerable time to the service of the Red Cross Headquarters, preparing for the War Fund Campaign and they have also aided in the work of the Nutrition Division. From the art classes, students have willingly painted murals and posters for hospital recreation rooms, and individual classes have brought much happiness to the servicemen by offering their own designs of flower holders, menu covers, tray favors and countless other artistic decorations. A group of boys have organized a bicycle squad for immediate messenger service. Through the untiring services of the faculty members serving as a Junior Red Cross Teacher Council, interest has been stimulated and sustained, and difficult problems have been solved in a most efficient manner. The Junior Red Cross Student Council has shown an effective means of insuring team work throughout the school.

Because of their unselfish desire to help others, the members of this great organization have certainly lived up to their ideal—"Wherever there is need, there the Junior members have an obligation."

CHESS CLUB REPORT

The 1944 chess team opened its tournaments with a decisive victory over Huntington, and ended with Roxbury Memorial. The possibilities for a 1944 championship team grew brighter. However, a highly talented Brookline team set back what seemed to be a sure victory for Cambridge. Our second encounter with Brookline was a repetition of the first.

The second threat was Boston Latin, whose victory over Cambridge High and Latin was the deciding factor that ruined our hope of winning the championship. The final upset was attributed to Malden High School.

By the termination of the tournaments, the chess team had broken even. But, the second team came through to win the championship, with Earl Rosenberg, Leonard Roseman, and Jacob Roseman displaying their talent in carrying the second team to the top. Other players such as Sylvia Hall and Robert Conant contributed to our success.

The 1945 chess team will be the same as 1944's, with president Howard Smolar playing first board, Marvin Rosenberg, Arnold Schutsberg, William Klopstock, and Paul Pearlman playing respective boards. This team, if I am allowed to prophecy, will win the 1945 championship.

DURRELL DEBATE CLUB

Back Row: Robert Di Comes, Secretary; Joseph Canney, Treasurer.

Front Row: Anthony Travers, Vice-President; Walter Cremens, President.

This year, the thirtieth anniversary of the Durrell Debating Society, marks the end of an enjoyable and successful debate season.

Early in the year, members of the club were asked to use their oratorical abilities to stimulate interest in the Junior Red Cross Drive. A large part of the success of the drive belongs to the members of the club.

We were fortunate in having several notable speakers address the club this year. Among them were Mrs. Mary Buckley Corley, an outstanding alumna of the school. Mrs. Corley addressed the club on the subject of "Labor Problems."

We also had the pleasure of hearing talks by Messrs. Charles Porter and Joseph De Guglienio who spoke on the problems of Proportional Representation. This was in preparation for the Durrell Prize Debate which this year was on the question of "Whether the American System of Proportional Representation Should Be Generally Adopted in American Cities." The teams for the debate were as follows:

Affirmative	Negative
John O'Brien	Sylvia Duncan Hall
Gretchen Hartman	James Nixon
Elizabeth Vando	Darlas Burrows

We cannot close the year without expressing our debt and sincere gratitude to our faculty advisors, Miss O'Keefe and Miss Hartigan, who have been ever ready with their constructive advice, leadership, and co-operation.

The officers for the past year have been:

President	Walter Cremens
Vice-President	Anthony Travers
Secretary	Robert Di Comes
Treasurer	Joseph Canney

DRAMATIC CLUB

Back Row: Eileen Toohey, O'Laughlin, Virginia McCauley.

First Row: Catherine Cooper, Secretary; Diane Perin, Vice-President; Cremens, President; Lynch, Treasurer.

The Dramatic Club has been most active this year despite necessary curtailments due to the war. We opened the season with the annual "getting acquainted" party to welcome new members into the club.

Early in October, the club gave its first dramatic presentation. It was a light, one-act comedy entitled "Red Carnations," and it marked the first of a series of plays which were both acted and directed by club members. Others of this type included "One Who Came To Gettysburg," which was given in November before the Sons of the Veterans, and "The Toy Shop," which was presented before the Freshman Class at Christmas.

The Christmas party was given at the home of one of the members, and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair.

During the year, we have also been entertained by returning alumni, by Professor Packard of Harvard, who gave a most instructive and enjoyable lecture on the voice, and by a "Talent Afternoon," which was held at the March meeting.

A group of plays was given by the club on the evening of May 26, in the interest of selling war bonds.

Members from amongst the girls have been very active in war work, especially in the Red Cross and in the hospitals where they have faithfully helped out by relieving nurses and by entertaining the patients.

The club wishes to acknowledge its debt of gratitude to Miss Hartigan and Miss O'Keefe, for without their capable and friendly guidance, ours would not be the successful organization it is today.

The officers for the past year have been:

President	Walter Cremens
Vice-President	Diane Perin
Treasurer	Carty Lynch
Secretary	Catherine Cooper

G. A. A.

Second Row: Jean Foley, Miss Brown, Betey Grove, Eileen Toohey.

First Row: Dorothy Sullivan, Mary Messinger, Mary Alice Bigler, Ruth Coleman.

Despite various complications and restrictions arising out of present conditions, it cannot be said that the Girls' Athletic Association did not have a fun-packed year. Those who enjoyed the most the privileges which the organization has to offer, were the Freshmen and Sophomore girls, who every year form the body of our most enthusiastic members, and attend every single party.

From the Harvest Dance wherein our gym, which looks like a barn anyway, was transformed into the interior of a huge and rustic edifice redolent with sweet-smelling hay and gaily-colored autumn leaves, to the Christmas Party, complete with Santa Claus, a leaning evergreen and splendid entertainment furnished by our own girls, and on down to a very successful Formal at the Hotel Commander, where the upperclassmen reigned supreme, the year was one of bustling activity. Shortly after the formal, the "girl-boy" dance was held, the night of a severe snow storm, despite which the attendance was more than adequate. In this dance, half the girls masquerade in their older brother's tux and black tie, to play escort to their best chum. Our very fine orchestra was later engaged for the Junior Prom.

The G. A. A. is not entirely a social organization, however, but basically an athletic club, offering competition in tennis, basketball, baseball, and swimming. Highlight of the year's sports activities is, of course, the annual Alma Mater basketball game; the grads of other years who starred in the sports return en masse to the dear old gym and show the graduating team of the present year how much they've not forgotten.

In closing I should like to give hearty and sincere thanks to our guiding star and advisor, Miss Alice M. Brown, who has given so much time and energy to her beloved G. A. A. The gratitude of the officers is unbounded.

During this third year of war, the K. B. has held meetings twice a month, for the purpose of knitting "New Havens"—rather unlikely looking at first glimpse, but when considered in the light of their proper use—as bedsocks—plausible and practical. The colours were uninhibited, to say the least, but wonderful as morale builders; that's the theory we adopted, anyway.

In the fall, there was a picnic by the Charles. By pooling points we managed to have hot dogs, and even found enough chocolate for samoas,—nice, sticky ones, which were so good we brought Mr. Downey one—toasted over a Bunsen Burner—the next day. We didn't stay to watch him eat it, though.

Our officers, Jean Faulkner, president, and Barbara Rundlett, secretary-treasurer, upheld their consciences as their king, as well as any knight of the table-round, and certainly, they spoke no slander, no, nor listened to it. As in the past, Miss McElroy and Miss Buckley were not merely sympathetic advisers, but good friends with whom to share the fun.

As the blackout and curfew regulations were relaxed somewhat, it was possible to hold our famous winter formal—THE event of the season—on February 18, with lighting and scenery provided by the Hotel Commander, music by Chappie Arnold and his rhythm-happy boys, and gowns by Filene's, Stearns' and so forth. Even the shortage of you-know-what power didn't prevent the evening's being a success.

To Miss McElroy and Miss Buckley we extend deepest thanks for their kindness, and the promise to uphold the traditional high standards of K. B.

LITERARY CLUB

This year marks the end of the season for a society that has just recently been recognized by the school, the Literary Club. In January, the club-members had their first meeting and elected the following officers to lead the club:

President	Robert DiComes '4
Vice-President	Gloria Smith '44
Secretary	Gretchen Hartmann '47
Treasurer	Lily Root '46

During the season, the members had reviewed for them "The Citadel" by Walter Cronin, "Jane Eyre" by Charlotte Bronte, "Dress Rehearsal" by Quentin Reynolds, and "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas, as well as several short stories.

First Row: Beverly Bruneau, Sally Messina, Noreen Buckley, Claire Moran, Helen Zinfon, Barbara Karbaum, Carolyn Cremens.

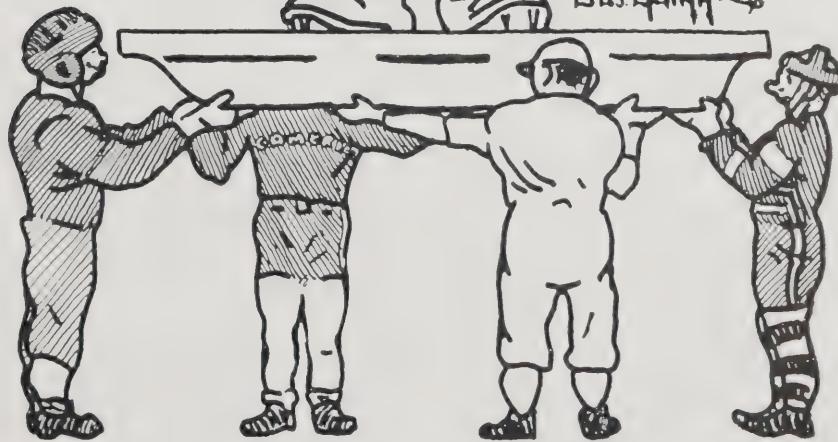

THE OUTING CLUB

The Outing Club has had a very active year. At the beginning of this school year, the members, under the supervision of Miss McCarthy, took several walks in search of birds, and held frequent ice-skating parties. In the spring, plans for picnics and supper walks have been made, followed by bicycle trips and weenie roasts. Many of the members have taken the opportunity of joining the Massachusetts Audubon Society as junior members.

The officers for this year are:

SENIOR BASKETBALL

BASKETBALL

This year's senior basketball team displayed an exceptionally fine spirit of sportsmanship and loyalty. Although many difficulties confronted the seniors their attendance at practice was good.

Our senior team consisted of only six: The forwards were Captain Mary Liakos, Helen Loud and Gertrude Wilson; the guards were Shirley Cochran, Rosemary Lothian and Claire Porter.

The teams which we met on the sports field were Arlington, Somerville, and Waltham. Unfortunately we were beaten by a margin of a very few points. If we had had more players I am quite sure we should have come out on top as the few girls we had were good.

To Miss Brown, our coach and friend, we seniors wish to offer our sincere thanks and appreciation for all the co-operation and understanding she showed to us through the year.

VARSITY BASKET BALL

Second Row: Helen Loud, Janice Banks, Miss Brown, Lucille Grimm.

First Row: Margaret Dinan, Helen Lothian, Mary Liakos, Captain; Mary Hildebrand, Muriel Nevins.

BASEBALL

The baseball season which has yet to begin is certain to have in store many exciting and thrilling games. The teams which we are scheduled to play so far are Arlington, Belmont, Somerville, and Waltham. The Arlington and Somerville games will be home games. Our baseball team has for many years made an unbeaten record. This proves that the games will be worth witnessing.

SWIMMING

The month of February marked the beginning of girls' swimming practice at the Y. M. C. A.

The governor has approved a "Learn-to-Swim" campaign for Massachusetts. Cambridge is joining in this campaign.

Our committee is composed of various leaders throughout the city. Miss Brown will be the G. A. A. representative.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Back Row: Scalise, Galliteri, Linehan, Cardillo, Lucey, Mullaney, Silvestri, Maloney.
Second Row: Mr. MacDonald, Cullen, Kelly, Mahoney, Mr. Elcewicz, Coach; Mr. Frisoli, Assistant Coach; Braithwaite, Doucette, Cusick, Mr. Foley, Faculty Manager.

First Row: Sabatino, Lakis, Saideh, Brinkerhoff, Captain; Lyons, Annechiarico, Griffin.

FOOTBALL

Although our team's record this year was by no means spectacular, much praise should be extended to the coaches and players who, either in victory or defeat, proved themselves to be sportsmen and gentlemen.

In an otherwise inconspicuous season, Latin defeated its city rival Rindge Tech 25-0, thus compensating somewhat for previous losses.

The players led by Captain Stan Brinkerhoff throughout the season were as follows:—

Ends: Paul Mahoney, Bill Braithwaite, Zeb Donovan, George Lucey.

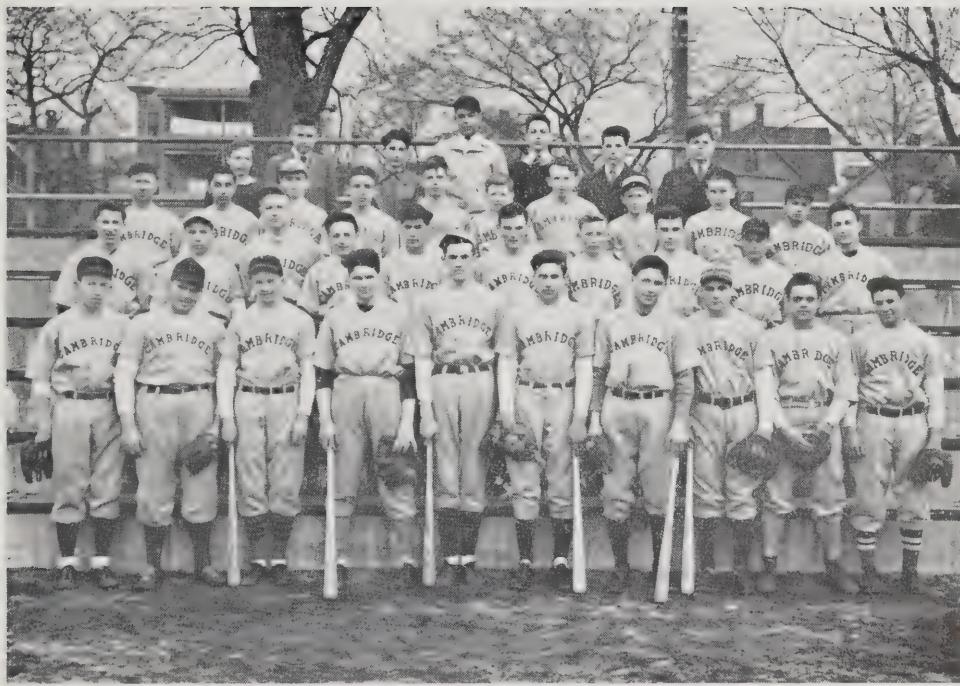

Tackles: Bob Lowry, John Griffin, Louie Gualtieri, Dick Learnard.

Guards: Jim Liakos, Hank Dailey, Claude Doucette, Gil Silvestri.

Centers: "Chub" Kelly, Ed Annechiarico, "Buzz" Cullins.

Backs: George Saideh, Stan Brinkerhoff, Ralph Sabatino, Wally Lyons, Art Scalese, John Linehan, Frank Mullaney, Tom Maloney, Bill Cusick.

The well-liked "Wally" Lyons was elected captain of next year's eleven.

Back Row: Twomey, Canney, Toumajanian, Bowser, Clark, Roseman, Harney.

Third Row: Mr. Foley, Hovannian, Caulfield, Harrington, Lyons, McCarron, Murphy, Crockett, Yankaustras, Sateriale.

Second Row: W. Goldberg, Cardillo, Biddle, Donahue, Frasca, Costa, Barry, Collins, Hillery, B. Goldberg.

First Row: Caulfield, Kelly, Feloney, Breen, Burke, Annecchiarico, Brinkerhoff, Foley, Saideh, Sabatino.

BASEBALL

As we go to print, the baseball team has not yet begun its season. However, it looks very much as if the squad will be successful, because of the number of men returning from last year's team, and the promise shown by the new members of the squad.

Our very able coach, Mr. Foley, has such capable veterans returning as Stan Brinkerhoff, a slugging outfielder and also an able pitcher, pitchers Ed Annecchiarico and Tom Burke, infielders Ralph Sabatino and Ray Foley, and outfielders Paul Feloney and Joe Breen. That forms a strong nucleus for the team, but added to these are the smooth newcomers John Caulfield, Patsy Cardillo, and Tony Frasca.

With the sort of material that our baseball team has this year, it would be no surprise to find our nine finishing high up in the league standing.

HOCKEY TEAM

Front Row: Foley, Hanlon, Downey, Fitzgerald, Captain; Frasca, Peck, Mullaney.

Middle Row: Mr. MacDonald, Doucette, Foster, Mr. Culhane, Coach; Dorie, Felony, Boudreau, Mr. Foley.

HOCKEY

This past winter, due to the inexperience of most of the squad, our six unfortunately had a poor season. However, our hopes for the coming season are high, since the experience gained by the undergraduates in the past season will be of invaluable aid next winter.

Our school was honored by the choice of the all-star committee of the Greater Boston League of Captain Jim Fitzgerald for the first team and Tony Frasca for the alternate squad.

Middle Row: Mr. MacDonald, Downey, Shannon, Brinkerhoff, Mr. Kozlowsky, Coach; Sgouros, Vigneron, Cardillo, Mr. Foley.

First Row: Caulfield, Haskell, Kelly, Mahoney, Paredes, Annecchiarico, Sabatino.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Under the very able tutelage of Coach Kozlowsky, the basketball team completed the season with a record of 6 wins and 7 defeats. Under the leadership of the co-captains Bob Lowry and Paul Mahoney, who were also the outstanding performers for the squad, the team played aggressive basketball throughout the season, combined with excellent teamwork and speedy passing.

The record, although not too impressive, does not give a clean picture of what actually took place. The team won five out of the first six league games in an impressive manner. However, in the last half of the season, several games were lost by extremely narrow margins. This bad luck prevented the squad from finishing high in the league standing. Probably the greatest satisfaction obtained from the season was the double defeat of Rindge, a feat which had not been accomplished for years, by the decisive scores of 21-11, and 36-18.

Admirably assisting the captains Lowry and Mahoney were Bill Shannon, who played a stellar defensive game at guard all season, John Paredes, sophomore sensation, Ralph Sabatino, Ed Annecchiarico, Stan Brinkerhoff, Paul Haskell, "Chub" Kelley, John Caulfield, John Vigneron, and Tom Sgouros.

TRACK TEAM

Back Row: Hollisian, Sgouros, Magro, Hogg, Sateriale.

Second Row: Mr. McDonald, Athletic Director; Smolar, Conley, Mr. Murphy, Coach; Lucey, McCarthy, Mr. Foley, Graduate Manager.

TRACK TEAM

The track team without a doubt has been the outstanding athletic team of Cambridge Latin for the past several years. Although having a comparatively small squad, Coach Murphy had some key men who brought the championship to Cambridge Latin in the state Class B track meet at the Boston Gardens for the first time in history.

Probably the outstanding member of the squad was co-captain Bill Braithwaite, who won the 600 in the state meet and also placed third in the broad-jump. Others who won points for C. H. L. S. in the state meet were Co-captain Henry Petrow, who ran third in the 300, Jim Downey, who came in second in the 1000, John Griffin, who placed second in the shot-put, and Arthur Scalise, who came in second in the broad-jump. Added to this was the spectacular relay team of Petrow, Downey, John Harrington, and Braithwaite, which so brilliantly won the relay. From all these stellar performances, it is quite easy to see why our team rolled up the points and brought the championship to Cambridge Latin.

Although they did not score, a great deal of credit must be given Steve Harrington and Ed Conley, on the hurdles, Tom Sgouros and Art Scalise, in the dash, Leo Hollisian in the 600, and Gil Sylvester, in the shot-put, who fought their hardest but could not quite place.

A tremendous share of the credit for the overwhelming success of the 1944 track team must go to Coach Ed Murphy, who taking over the coaching reins only last year, has molded such a capable and well-balanced squad.

We, the class of '44, being purportedly of sound mind and body, do hereby bequeath, free of duty or inheritance tax, to these our beneficiaries:

To the young and eager Freshman about to launch on their first year of French, a word of warning from the disillusioned Seniors: Don't expect to understand the French your teacher speaks, but memorize the words, "Je ne sais pais."

To the already hardening Sophomores—the threat in Miss Hagerty's eyes as she pulls forth reams of composition paper to be filled with relevant words on "Gum"; the realization that homework is lengthening and so are the days between week-ends.

To the sophisticated Juniors: A number of commercial arithmetic books with correct, you hope, answers on each page; incoherent thought questions dished up with sadistic pleasure by merciless English teachers; a second year of dealing with those dangerous characters x, y, z, and their nemeses a, b, and c; an occasional jaunt to the third floor, land of knowledge run rampant.

To the careworn Seniors: the agony of having one (?) more year to toil; lockers full of pictures of Frankie; a growing love and appreciation for America under the painless teaching of Mr. Sullivan; wardrobes worn ragged by saturation in sulfuric; a raccoon coat for wintry days in 325, where the radiators are as purely ornamental as a fireplace in Florida; the joy of spending all Sunday eking out 350-word themes on nonsensical subjects, not to mention reading those animated novels; Mr. Bramhall's deep-seated chuckles; the suspense of waiting for graduation pictures to arrive; enjoyment of Virgil, fostered by Mr. Derry's delightful enthusiasm; the development of poise under Miss McElroy, a perfect example for her would-be charmers, who all too often, we suspect, provoke sighs of discouragement from their trainer; the swish of Miss Hogan's fascinating clothes.

To the faculty, one and all, our best wishes, and the following:

To Mr. McKenna, a shining B-25 bomber;

To Miss Huling, a "History of Europe" and a carton of aspirin with all our regards; to Miss Veal, a new system of taking attendance; to Miss Dunphy, a noiseless typewriter.

To everyone who has the smallest job—"How to Prepare Your Income Tax"—a carefully documented study.

To all our successors at Cambridge Latin: the hope that your activities won't be cramped by wartime regulations; that you may go to formals without wondering where the gas is coming from; that you may look forward to college or a job, rather than to war; but, more than these, that you may uphold the ideals and values behind the fighting, and interpret your freedom unselfishly, for the happiness and peace of a unified world.

Epilogue

Our year book has come to an end. The happenings, the humorous incidents, the prophetic conjectures of our future life, have all been recorded in the narrow scope of this book.

The time happily spent during the past four years, however, is behind us. The first page in our life's history has been finished, and we set out into the world to fulfill our place in Destiny equipped with the knowledge and training that we have received here.

But this cannot, must not, be an end to our education. These past years have been a mere beginning, a formulative era, in our educational life. Education is a continual process, and whether by reading or by practical experience, we must absorb education, the most profitable asset that man can possess.

May this year book serve, in years to come, as a priceless memento of the never-to-be regained happiness of our adolescence, and may the memory of our training ever spur us on to greater deeds.
